PREFACE.

THIS collection of cases is intended by the compiler to serve as an aid in the study of case law by enabling the lawyer or student examining any reported case to ascertain, by a single reference to the proper list, whether or not such case has been carried to appeal, and if it has what was the result of such appeal and where it is reported. Such being the object of the compilation it is hardly necessary to say that cases reported only on appeal are not inserted, with the exception, however, of those taken to the Privy Council as to which the collection is complete.

To gather together the materials for the preparation of this little volume has called for the expenditure of no small amount of time and labour, and the greatest care has been exercised to insure accuracy. If it proves to be of any value to those engaged in the study and practice of the law, the object of the compilation will have been attained.

C. H. MASTERS.
